

MAYSVILLE, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1914.

ONE COPY—ONE CENT.

BEST WISHES.

We wish you a Merry Christmas—
Indeed, indeed, we do;
And if you don't believe it—
It's real mean of you.

COLONEL GEORGE M. ROBB DIES
AT NATIONAL MILITARY HOME.

Word was received here last Friday that George M. Robb had died that morning at the National Military Home at Dayton, O., where he had gone some two weeks before.

The death of this genial, jovial man will be lamented by every one who knew him. He died on his birthday, being 74 years of age December 18.

George Robb was a soldier of the Civil war, being in the 16th Kentucky Infantry, and was a good soldier.

When the rural mail service was established he was the first carrier from the Ripley office. He resigned within the past year because of failing health.

For the past 50 years he made his home in the family of the late James Henry, and was as one of the family.

Mrs. Ella McCaughey went to Dayton Saturday and remained to attend the funeral which was held there Monday; burial in the Soldiers' Home cemetery. Peace to his ashes.—Ripley Bee.

Mr. Robb was well known in this city and was employed in the 80's with Viceroy & Lee in the sewing machine business.

RUSSELL'S "FAREWELL WINDOW."

Take a look at the "Farewell Window" of the M. C. Russell Company. It's a wonder. Liquor prices cut in two. Going out of whisky business December 31. Get wise and buy while you can get the best at half-price.

EMMONS-HUTTON.

Owen Emons and Miss Emma Hutton of Tilton, Fleming county, were united in marriage by the Rev. A. P. Stahl of the Christian church. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hopkins. The young people motored south from Maysville to some destination where they will spend Christmas.
